Supports Unicode fonts and international languages weatherMate WeatherMate is a nice utility designed to help the user keep aware of the global weather conditions. It provides the most relevant data for the current day, the following day and the 15 days ahead. There is a special section for alerts and weather conditions which include earthquakes, tornadoes, hurricanes and floods, just to name a few. As a matter of fact, the information is displayed using a map of the world and the current weather is shown as a red dot. That's where we find the most appealing element of this program, since it is a standalone desktop application and has no dependence on the Internet to deliver the data. All the information is saved locally and can be viewed with a heat map that shows the most current information at the time of the last update. WeatherMate requires a Windows 95/98/2000 machine to run properly and although it has only a few interface options, it is a very helpful application due to the useful details that it provides. "What is this application?" is a question people have often asked me. Well, it's a special gadget-like widget that sits on the desktop and displays the temperature in a friendly way. Conveniently, this widget can be opened in the tray area and therefore, it can sit beside the clock to present information without blocking your view of the main Weather Pulse screen. It even has a transparent look and feel, which gives you more room to see the rest of your desktop. Weather Pulse allows you to configure the program to show you the weather information in a number of ways: hourly forecasts, daily forecasts, 3 day forecasts or a 10 day forecast. Weather Pulse can get weather information from a number of sources including: global forecast systems, US sources, Europe, UK and Australia. What is the Weather Pulse? I can refer to it as a dot on the desktop that does more than just keep you informed about the weather. Weather Pulse comes with an extremely user-friendly GUI and a number of interesting features. The applications gives you access to a number of weather information sources including: global forecast systems, US sources, Europe, UK and Australia. Forecasts are generated for the following locations: Barrie, Barrie Airport, Barrie YZYZ, Barrie ZYX, Barrie YYZY, Caledon, Canada, Canada, Chicago, Canada, Detroit, Canada, Montreal, Toronto, Canada, Vancouver, Canada, Toronto, Atlanta, Atlanta, Houston, Houston, Phoenix, Phoenix, Toronto, Auckland, Australia. You can add up to 10 locations for which you want to get the weather information. Weather Pulse is divided into the following sections: Weather forecast, satellite images, radar images, alerts and settings. Weather forecast section provides you with information about the current weather conditions at your selected location. In order to quickly switch between locations, you can choose from a drop-down list to set the desired location. If you don't want to see the main screen, you can activate Weather Pulse desklet to have the current temperature in the tray area. Weather Pulse feature a non-function icon that opens a Weather Pulse website with no add-ons in sight, though it does provide weather information about your current location. Weather Pulse uses the most current and accurate information. All weather data in Weather Pulse is based on the nearest weather station, which guarantees the most accurate and timely information. Weather Pulse also uses US weather data which is

Does anyone here remember the large, blue skin, that came out a few years ago? It has a picture of a helicopter, a bag of candies, a skier on top of a mountain? It was, with more or less, an IOS theme that I installed for my PPC iPhone. This is actually the new Versa Skin that has recently been revealed. It is packaged in a .pkg file and has similar components to the previous skin but, in fact, there is an added jetpack. Just like the first version, it is a Freeware utility. The routine includes the usual skins directory and the Voila skin folder with all the themes and installed skins. After the installation, you will be able to customize the look and feel of the phone by choosing between the installed skins and uninstalling some to save disk space. It does not install any theme pack but the items it contains and the fact that it is freeware, make it a good solution to have a bit of fun without having to spend money. It is compatible with the AT&T, Canada, T-Mobile and the Verizon networks. Note that the
