Path to Valhalla is a classic tabletop wargame designed by Cam Banks. Set within the world of the Pathfinder Roleplaying Game, it revolves around groups of the recently deceased who want to get on the road to Valhalla (the Valhalla, in Norse Mythology, is where Odin and his family reside after death). It is a highly detailed, with around 80 unique items and characters. There is a campaign-based release with a monthly fee and lots of hardcover expansion campaigns.

Q: How do I get data from properties in ASP.Net? I'm looking at the Razor documentaton for ASP.Net. I'm a bit confused because it seems to be saying something like the following is correct:

@Html.LabelFor(x => x.Name) So far so good. But then they say:
@Html.LabelFor(x => x.FirstName)
@Html.LabelFor(x => x.LastName) Isn't it

wrong to call the property? Shouldn't the first be: `@Html.LabelFor(x => x.Name.FirstName)` `@Html.LabelFor(x => x.Name.LastName)` ? If not, then what's the point? I'm just trying to wrap my head around it. A: First is what you would use inside an expression like a model or viewbag you have passed into your view. Second is the "true" value inside the expression, so you could use it to set a default value on a label or similar if your value wasn't in the model or viewbag. `@Html.LabelFor(x => x.Name.FirstName)` and `@Html.LabelFor(x => x.FirstName, new { Value = "defaultValue" })` A: In the example of `@Html.LabelFor(x => x.Name.FirstName)`, the `x => x.Name` part is a lambda expression that takes in a parameter `x` and returns a `PropertyInfo` object for the property you are asking to be created from that parameter. Hello Hello, Thank you for watching my short story, you can now download my game for free. This game is inspired by the film

"Another Earth" (2011) of the American director, Peter Sollett (bio) which I recommend. I hope you like the game, and thanks for taking a look at it. From a feline elemental cat, a world of Avernian about 1.5 hours

Description: The hero of this game is an elemental cat living in a world where danger awaits in the unexpected places, the hero's skills and reflexes are key for survival. He begins his journey by exploring a whole world and reach a unique element, a cold icy place. In this game you will find a rich world, different locations and very unexpected enemies, be careful with them, you will see very unique scenarios with lighthearted turn of combat and physics. Play this short game for free

Hello everyone! I'm new in game development, and I would like to share with you my first game. It's a 2D side scrolling game inspired by the famous Super Mario Bros. The best part is that this game is fully playable in text mode with no graphics, so don't expect a great graphic look, but I'll improve later on! In the game you can play as Mario, Luigi, Yoshi, Toad, Koopa, Goomba, Bullet Bill and many others. Also you can select a stage and go through it (you will see the in-game map of the stage when the sun rises, if you press A while walking, the landscape will change, and if you press C the map will be zoomed), or go back to the main menu. Of course you are able to play as Bowser at any time. The game is entirely composed of 81 levels, the story is not that important, the logic of the game is to enjoy the fun and the challenge of the game. The difficulty level is medium. - No Sirens, No Sound - Koppab Blog May 15th 2011 "A man must know his enemy: since that is his fate" BY LAURA CLIFFORD Original Article from www.koppab.com "Cut Them Up WALLPAPER PACK - No Sirens, No Sound" Koppab is one of the most infamous modules on the Force. The pack crams in a ton of noise, over 16200 bits and will give you hours of fun. Along with makemyflash.com and gootatts3, Koppab is one of the biggest forces to ever drop. But still, there have been no talks about a Koppab Mod, which is why I have chosen to take matters into my own hands and make one. Inside are 16192 sounds spread across 230 files of 24 bits, 4 channels of insane noise and FX. The files include; 1 Kick Drum loop, 2 Kick Reverbs, 2 Snare Reverbs, 1 Xylophone loop, 2 Fuzz Boxes, 2 Delay Phasers, 10 Vocal Reverbs, 2 Harmonics, 16 Horns, 2 Chorus, 10 Chromatic Cues, 2 Harmonic Fuzzes, 6 Echostones, 1 Super FX, 19 Bix Noise, 7 Regular Noise, 26 Wind Chimes, 16 Tails, 15 Click Reverbs, 16 Autos, 1 Groove Note, 1 Sawtooth, 3 Click Objects, 16 Jump In loops, 3 Alternate In Loops, 2 Tails Loops, 20 Seamless Segments, 30 Slices, 3 Continuities, 11 Chorus Loops, 1 Channel Reverse and 16 Normal Loops. There are in total 295 files, 95 of which are features, a single file is about 9 minutes in length. The total time is 14:53. All files should be good to go in EVERY Wav editor + ID3 Tag Lover. Reason and free download included. When this was released on Koppab's YouTube, people from every force always requested one and in this rendition, I have chosen to do that. A Full link will be provided, but it's better to check it out on the page, than using my link... I can't stress this enough, so PLEASE check it out on the link, and not my link!. Enjoy!

Search form How to persuade customers that they're being treated fairly Not sure whether customers realize that you're doing them a favor by staying in business with them? Check out The Importance of Fairness, a brief video by the International Association of Business Analysts. Since the advent of the Internet, many companies have been concerned about the potential for escalating trade disputes between companies. Additionally, new regulations on global marketing campaigns and content have provided yet another set of challenges for marketers and business strategists. As a result, international trade and international marketing have become major issues for businesses and their customers. As the battle to maintain a competitive edge becomes increasingly vital, the war for world consumer loyalty has become a hot topic. This presentation will highlight how and when an on-going relationship with a customer can be leveraged into marketing campaigns that play to their desires and fears. The presentation will discuss the impact of globalization, the increase in trade disputes, and the introduction of new regulations on marketing campaigns, and how these new challenges have impacted companies and their customers. Q: Is it better to set DNS server via VPN or just hard-code? All the times I use VPN, it sets up the DNS server to the VPN company's. Is it better to just set the DNS directly from the local computer, or do you still have to go through the VPN to set it? A: Having your own DNS will let you use any DNS servers, or even any IP address. I would suggest you always use your own DNS server to avoid network problems related to DNS. But there's no reason you can't use a VPN to make the firewall redirect your connection to the VPN servers so that they use your DNS server as well, which would let you use any DNS server. // (C) Copyright John Maddock 2001 - 2002. // (C) Copyright Jens Maurer 2001 - 2002. //
